POETRY.

"THE DANISH WARRIOR'S DEATH SONG.

"Away, away! your care is vain;
No leech could aid me now;
The chill of death is at my heart,
Its damp upon my brow.

Weep not—I shame to see such tears
Within a warrior's eyes;
Away! how can ye weep for him
Who in the battle dies.

If I had died with idle head
Upon my lady's knee.—
Had Fate stood by my silken bed,
Then might ye weep for me.

But I lie on my own proud deck
Before the sea and sky;
The wind that sweeps my gallant sails
Will have my latest sigh.

My banner floats among the clouds,
Another droops below;
Well with my heart's best blood is paid
Such purchase of a foe.

Go ye and seek my halls, there dwells
A fair-hair'd boy of mine;
Give him my sword, while yet the blood
Darkens that falchion's shine.

Tell him that only other blood
Should wash such stains away;
And if he be his father's child,
There needs no more to say.

Farewell, my bark! farewell, my friends!
Now fling me on the wave;
One cup of wine, and one of blood,
Pour on my bounding grave."

A Study for Cruikshank.—The injunction of Sir Walter Scott was to visit Melrose by moonlight—another authority recommends you to turn your back on the building, and stoop down and look at it through your legs. In reference to this latter advice, the author of Rambles in Northumberland thus writes:—Marius among the ruins of Carthage, has been often referred to as an interesting subject for the painter, but what is it to the Rev Dr Dryasdust, florid, fat, and fifty, exposing himself to the risk of apoplexy in looking through his legs at Melrose Abbey. Once, and once only, was it my fortune to behold an amiable enthusiast thus indulging his love of the sublime and beautiful. He was a stout little man, apparently about forty-five, who with his wife was making a tour of pleasure, and had arrived at Melrose by the Chevy-Chase coach, from the South. It was one afternoon in September, when there was a cloud upon the Eldons and a drizzling rain falling, and then did I behold him, on the south-east of the church-yard, looking at the Abbey through his legs, while his loving partner held an umbrella over him.—"Oh, how I envied him his feelings!"

Court Fools.—"Triboulet, the jester of Francis I., was present at the preliminary council of war, at which the best means of invading Italy was discussed. When the council was about to break up, Triboulet exclaimed, 'You all think no doubt that you have given his majesty a great deal of good advice, and yet you have forgotten the most important part of the business.' 'What is that?' was the general enquiry. 'Why,' said Triboulet, 'you have never considered how we are to get back again. Do we mean to stop in Italy?' The fatal result of the campaign proved that the jester's council was well-timed. Nor is this the only instance which history presents us, where the opinion of a fool has proved worthy of the attention of the learned members of a council, as the following anecdote will show:—The Duke of Mantua was once called upon to decide a question of precedency, between the Doctors of Law and the Doctors of Medicine, at Pavia. He accordingly summoned a council learned in such matters, who, after deliberating for a considerable time, left the point unsettled. At length, the Duke's jester, who was present, said that he could easily decide the case. 'Let us hear your wise decision?' said the duke. 'Why,' said the fool; 'you may decide by precedent. When a rogue is to be hanged, he always goes before the executioner." [The English Annual.]

Frederick Willliam I., King of Prussia.—When the King had invited himself as a guest, he had at times to pay the reckoning. One of the Generals, who was noted for his parsimony, having declined the honor of a Royal visit under the plea that he had no establishment of his own, his Majesty desired him to order a dinner at the Hotel of the King of Portugal. This of course could not be evaded; the King was invited, but came with twice the number of attendants the General expected. The very best, however, that the cellar or kitchen could afford was produced in the greatest abundance, and the King expressed his entire satisfaction. The general sent for the landlord, and inquired the price per head. "One florin without the wine." "Well, then, here is one florin for myself, and another for his Majesty; the other gentlemen, whom I did not invite, will pay for themselves." "That is clever," cried the King; "I thought to take in the general, he has taken me in"—upon which he paid the whole bill.—Foreign Quarterly Review.

Perils of Sea-fowling.—A father and two sons were out together, and, having firmly attached their rope at the summit of a precipice, descended on their usual occupation. Having collected as many birds and eggs as they could carry, they were all three ascending by the rope—the eldest of the sons first, his brother a fathom or two below him, and the father following last. They had made considerable progress, when the elder son, looking upwards, perceived the strands of the rope grinding against a sharp edge of rock, and gradually giving way. He immediately reported the alarming fact. "Will it hold together till we can gain the summit?" asked the father. "It will not hold another minute," was the reply; "our triple weight is loosening it rapidly!" "Will it hold one!" said the father. "It is as much as it can do," replied the son; "even that is but doubtful." "There is then a chance, at least, of one of us being saved; draw your knife, and cut the rope below!" was the cool and intrepid order of the parent; "Exert yourself, you may yet escape, and live to comfort your mother!" There was no time for discussion or further hesitation. The son looked up once more, but the edge of the rock was cutting its way, and the rope was nearly severed. The knife was drawn, the rope was divided, and his father and brother were launched into eternity!—Stanley's Familiar History of Birds.

A Bigamist.—The following is from a late number of the Cincinnati Whig. Unless Mon-L'Duck is particular ingenious, he stands a very excellent chance of being "ducked in a horse pond."

"A Frenchman, by the name of L'Duc, who had a dying establishment on Walnut street, absconded night before last, as we are told, under the following melancholy auspices. A lady arrived in this city, sometime during Monday, and asseverated that she had a legal and irresistible claim upon the person and effects of said Mons. L'Duc, and that he had left her some time previously in the eastern country. She having got wind of him, scented him out, to his domicil in Cincinnati. Unfortunately for her success, it appears that her liege lord had formed a matrimonial alliance with a spinster here, some time ago, and who a couple of months since had been consigned to her grave. Our Frenchman made shift to repair his loss as soon as practicable, and before another moon had waned, had actually secured in bands hymenial, a damsel who had just began to count her teens. They got along tolerably well together for the month prior to the arrival alluded to, as having transpired on Monday last, which circumstance threw them into a nonplus. On Monday night, L'Duc in company with his new made spouse, abandoned the city; and in the morning, those interested in the affair, were ignorant of the direction which the fugitives had taken; and the wife who had travelled hither in order to reclaim her husband, was once more the victim of his runaway propensities. It is said that L'Duc has quite as many wives as a good Turk is allowed to appreciate—viz:—four.

TRY IT.—A machine for washing clothes on the fulling-mill principle.—After the many trials on different principles it has been acknowledged by the best judges on Machinery that this principle is the only one that will do the work without injury to the clothes.

This machine has gone into successful operation in Portland, Boston, Providence, and New York—was before the fair at Niblo's Garden, and was awarded a silver medal by the American Institute. It is in operation in Philadelphia, and on board packet ships. They are now for sale in this city by the Patentee, or his agent, JOSEPH A. LOCKE, 61 Pond street, and may be seen at the most respectable taverns in this city, as will be seen by the certificates below.

ELEGANT ENGLISH PERFUMERY.—JAS. & EDWARD ATKINSON, Perfumers, 24 Old Bond st, corner of Burlington Gardens, London, have supplied their Agent, J. A. DICKSON, 36 Cornhill, formerly Market street, with a valuable quantity of the following articles, which have been generally approved—

FASHIONABLE SOAPS.

White Hands.—Atkinson's Almond Soap—made from the purest Oil of Almonds—uniting all the softening qualities of the Almond with the detergency of the common Alkaline Soap.

Chapped Hands.—Camphor Soap—J. & E. E. A. recommend this Soap as containing a greater quantity of Camphor than has hitherto been considered practicable. It possesses all the cooling and other good qualities of that well known article.

For Family Use—Atkinson's old brown Windsor Soap.

Ambrosial Soap—It is made from pure vegetable oil, and is equally mild as the almond, only differing from it in perfume and color—the latter being a light brown, and the perfume a combination of those most generally approved.

The above, with every other new and fashionable Soap and Shaving Cakes, are always ready for exportation, and an allowance is always made on taking one or more dozen.

Atkinson's Concentrated Essence of Lavender—prepared four times the strength of the best Lavender Water, freed from all the empyreuma of the spirit, and unsophisticated with the sickly admixture of musk, ambergris, &c. The superiority of this article to Lavender Water is, that it is much more powerful and fragrant—it is also much cheaper, as there is four times more perfume of the Essence for the money, than in the best Lavender water in use.

Atkinson's Vegetable Dye—changes red or grey hair on the head, or whiskers to an auburn or black, so permanent that neither washing, perspiration, nor any other cause can in the least affect it.

Bear's Grease, for the growth of Hair—This article is procured from the animal in its native climate, it being known to possess more vivifying properties when so procured, than when the animal is in a domesticated state. It is of the finest quality, and is sent out without any admixture, except a little perfume to keep it sweet—and for the growth of hair it is no doubt far superior to any thing hitherto known. Also for dressing the hair it is very pleasant and useful—cleansing the head from dandriff, and making the hair beautifully soft and glossy.

Atkinson's Curling Fluid, or Vegetable Hair Oil—for dressing the Hair This article has been very generally patronised for the last twenty years—and is considered an indispensable appendage to the toilet—it is a most excellent article for dressing the hair, making it, however, harsh, soft and glossy as silk—and keeping it in curl in exercise or damp weather.

Almond Shaving Paste—In very neat portable pots; a very elegant and excellent preparation for shaving.

Milk of Almonds—The most elegant and efficacious cosmetic hiherto introduced. It is a great improvement to what has long been known as Milk of Roses. It removes freckles, redness, roughness, &c. from the skin, and gives it a brilliant clearness and whiteness.

Atkinson's Depilatory—For removing superfluous Hair on the Face, Neck or Arms, with equal certainty and safety, leaving the skin softer and whiter than before the application.

Hudson's Botanic Tooth Powder and Tincture.—These Dentrifices, which have so much attracted the attention of the Medical Profession, are remedies for all disorders of the mouth; they not merely cleanse and beautify the Teeth, but preserve them from decay. They make the Teeth white, fasten such as are loose, eradicate the scurvy and tartar from the gums, leaving them firm and of a healthy redness, and if used regularly will supersede the necessity of a Dentist. They are entirely free of acid, and so innocent that a child may take the contents of a box of the Powder; and the Tincture is an excellent stomachic, and a certain remedy for the Toothache.

Hudson's Tooth Brushes—in sets of three—made on scientific principles, and warranted in bone and ivory.

Alla Ad Deen Mahomed's Dye—for changing the hair on the head, eyebrows or whiskers, to a permanent brown or black, by one application, without staining the skin or the finest linen.

Caution—Every article of James and Edward Atkinson's manufacture has their names and address distinct on the label, also—a small address stamp, similar to a patent medicine stamp, printed in colors.

PORTRAIT AND MINIATURE PAINTING

R ROWLEY thanks the public for the very liberal patronage he has received, and would inform those desirous of having Portraits or Miniatures painted, that he may be found at his rooms, No. 11, Pearl Place, at all hours of the day, where it will afford him pleasure to attend to the execution of all orders he may be favored with. VEGETABLE EXTRACT.—This is the most valuable remedy yet discovered for the cure of Throat Distemper, or Malignant, Putrid, Ulcerated Sore throat—Scarlet Fever—Canker Rash—Canker in the Mouth, Throat and Bowels—Diarrhea—Dyssentery—Sore Mouth of Nursing Women—and the Acred Humors of Teeting Children—in short, for almost all the affections of the Mucus Membrane of the Mouth, Throat and Alimentary Canal. These diseases are acknowledged by all Physicians to be of the most severe and obstinate character, and have long baffled their skill and research. The discovery, therefore, of an effectual remedy for them, particularly for the various forms of Scarlet Fever, must be considered by every true philanthropist as an invaluable desideratum. As a common and perfectly safe family medicine, it will be found of inestimable value in cases of common Sore Throats and Colds—disordered state of the Stomach and Bowels—such as habitual Costiveness—Indigestion—Flatulency—Nausea and Vomiting. Also, in cases of weakness arising from Fever and all debilitating diseases—such as Consumption, &c—it will be found very beneficial as a cathartic and altrative, as it neither causes debility, nor does it, as is the case with the operation of most medicine, so readily dispose one to take cold.

The Vegetable Extract has now been some time before the public, and its great powers justly tested. Hundreds of individuals have successfully tried it, and several eminent Physicians are in the almost daily use of it in their practice, who are truly astonished at its great curative qualities, and are ready to give their testimony in favor of its efficiency and power. There now remains but one obstacle in the way of its very general use, and that is, the price. The proprietors, being desirous to obviate this difficulty, have therefore determined to reduce the price to 62½ cents per bottle, for one year, which barely remunerates for the great expense of preparing the article—this will bring it within the means of every person, so that no one need suffer for the want of it—and the poor man be able to obtain it for himself and family, as well as the rich.

N. B. Should any one still feel scrupulous of what is here stated, relative to the Vegetable Extract, and will call on one of the proprietors, No 118 State street, Boston, besides the recommendations which will accompany each bottle, other abundant and most satisfactory evidence will be exhibited respecting it.

FARM TO LET.

To be let, or leased, for farming purposes, all the unoccupied Lands at East Boston, belonging to the Company, consisting of more than five hundred acres of upland and salt marsh.

The upland is capable of producing large quantities of hay, and pasturing many cattle.

For a milk farm it is probably superior to any in the vicinity of Boston—the occupant will have the preference of supplying the Maverick House with milk and cream, which will go far towards paying the rent of the farm.

The Farm-house and Barns are in good order, and there is an abundance of sea manure around the island.

Apply at the Land Office of the East Boston Company, near the Maverick House. WM. FETTYPLACE,

THE BOSTON MORNING POST.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 1836.

GREAT MEETING AT FANEUIL HALL.

The citizens of Boston and vicinity, friendly to the election of MARTIN VAN BUREN to the next Presidency, will hold a convention at Faneuil Hall on Thursday evening, the eighteenth instant, at 7 o'clock, for the purpose of taking such measures as may be deemed advisable to promote the same.

The members of the Legislature and the citizens of the Commonwealth generally, in favor of the above object, are respectfully invited to attend and take part in the convention.

By order of the Committee of Arrangements.
Boston, Feb. 15, 1836.

NOTICE.

The Democratic members of the Legislature are requested to meet at the U. S. District Court Room on Tuesday evening next, at 7 o'clock, to see what measures they will take with regard to the nomination of State Officers for the next ensuing political year, and also with regard to the nomination of a ticket for Electors of President and Vice President of the United States

☞ The above meetings will be very important ones, and we hope that both of them will be promptly attended by all such as are invited to them. The Convention at FANEUIL HALL, will, unquestionably, be crowded. The course of the administration has been so triumphantly correct in all its important measures, that there is not a shadow of justification left for its opponents. Let those then who have heretofore acted with the opposition, but are now convinced of their error, go to Faneuil Hall on Thursday night, and unite with the democrats they will find assembled there laboring to perpetuate the blessings and prosperity the country is now enjoying.

STENOGRAPHIC GLIMPSES OF CONGRESS.

Washington, February 9, 1836.

He who is not for us, is against us He who is not the friend of his country, is her foe; he who will not defend her, will betray her—let no such man be trusted. A parent is never guilty in the eye of the child; nor his country in the eye of the patriot; and perdition take that profligate, reprobate son, who would not defend her, right or wrong!— It is the first law of nature, and of nations; and he who would violate it, would violate a sanctuary.—If she has done aught unseemly, we should go backwards, like the son of the patriarch, and cast the mantle of charity over her folly—not betray it to the derision and advantage of her foes. They may like the treason, but will despise the traitor.

Every member of Congress who has sided with France in the present contest, history will set a mark upon, that the grave itself shall not erase. If he has rivalled the infamy of Cain, let him expect to receive his reward. Shall an American dare stand up in the very sanctuary of the Laws and Constitution, and pronounce his country in the wrong, when every nation of Europe has pronounced her in the right? No!—He is not an American, he is a Traitor—and a traitor has no country; he is the outlaw of all. In what category shall we class certain members of the Senate? Let them choose the horn of the dilemma, and—hang upon it!

Senate. Mr Leigh delivered a speech to day on Col. Benton's Resolutions. A Monticello in [illegible] brought forth something less than a mouse—a "quid!"—a puling apology for France! Had it been a "frog," she might have swallowed it; as it is, she can only chew upon it—"the cud of sweet and better fancy!" It was worthy of "the Ambassador apud South Carolina," but would have damned any other man. It would be charity to suppose him insane; and I am willing to believe it is above his capacity to be guilty. This is the only apology I can offer for him. He talked about the controversy with France being "boy's play!" Is he in his second childhood? His only choice of pleas is dotage or insanity. I will allow him to plead double—he may take both. And here let me leave M. Leigh.

Mr Brown has the floor to-morrow on the same subject. The House discussed the military appropriations, but no vote was taken.

REIS EFFENDI.

Discriminating rascals.—The store of S. S. Smith, at Woonsocket (R. I.) was broken open on the night of the 4th inst. and robbed of about $200 worth of goods The thieves then proceeded to the stable of a Mr Harris, and took out a valuable horse—not finding a sleigh to suit them there, they proceeded to another stable, and selected one of the best of a large lot, supplied it well with whips, buffaloes, and overcoats, harnessed in their horse—made off—and have not since been heard of.

On Thursday last, a dead body was picked up on Plymouth beach, supposed to be that of Daniel Canton, late of brig Regulator. On the right arm were pricked with India ink, the letters D. S. C., below which were the American Eagle, two hearts and a dart. On the left arm was the portrait of a female, and below, the American Ensign and stars. The body was placed in the public tomb.

The alarm of fire at 11 o'clock on Saturday evening was caused by an attempt to set fire to the stable of Pratt & Dodge, in Milk street, which was fortunately discovered in season to be extinguished before any damage was done. The second alarm proceeded from a like attempt on a pile of boards in the rear of Summer street. The third alarm was from a house in Keith Place, rear of Hanover street, which took fire from the sitting of a tailor's goose, while hot, on the floor—damage about $100. The Rev. Mr Green's Church in Essex street, was set on fire in two places—it was discovered and extinguished by a fireman returning from the first alarm.

The Capitol at Washington came near being burned down lately—a fire flue had been choked up, which communicated to some wood work and set it on fire—the packers being detained later than usual, discovered and extinguished it.

A colored man by the name of Paul Jones, lost his life in New York a few days since by taking a furnace of ignited coal into his bed room. He was found lying across the furnace of coal, perfectly inanimate, and his body most shockingly burnt.

The John Battiste mentioned in Saturday's Post as being connected with the St Nicholas slaver, seized at New York last week, is not the individual of the same name who was recently tried in this city.

The Edgarton Academy was destroyed by fire on the 4th inst., caused by placing ashes in a wooded vessel.

The Mediation.—The following remarks upon the conditional acceptance of the mediation of England relative to our French relations, by the Government of the United States, will be read with interest and gratification by the American people.

From the Washington Globe, Feb. 9.

The Message of yesterday contains an official announcement that the British Government has tendered the offer of its mediation, for the settlement of the difficulties now existing between France and the United States; and that, so far as the nature of the case would allow, this offer has been promptly accepted by the Executive. As it is not yet known whether France will accept it on her part, it was probably deemed premature and inexpedient, at the present time to lay before Congress the correspondence on the subject. We have, however, received such information in regard to it, as to be able to correct some of the erroneous suggestions which have appeared in the public journals.

The proposal was made to, and accepted by this Government, in the ordinary form of diplomatic intercourse. Mr Bankhead, the Charge d'Affaires of Great Britain, pursuant to instructions received from his Government, addressed to the Secretary of State, a note offering the mediation, which was replied to, under the direction of the President, by the Secretary of State.

The letter of Mr Bankhead, (which is probably a counterpart of the proposal addressed to the French Government,) whilst it expresses the regret with which the British Government has witnessed the progress of the misunderstanding between France and the United States, is understood to be entirely respectful to both parties. Great Britain, being closely united to each of the two powers, and entertaining for both the most friendly feelings, is induced to propose her good offices for the adjustment of their difficulties, under the belief that it may be effected on principles of justice, and in a manner consistent with the nicest sentiments of national honor. The letter of Mr Forsyth, as we understand, reciprocates the friendly sentiments expressed by the British Government, and, without indulging in needless accusation, gives such a view of the present posture of the subject, as to show, that the refusal of France to execute the treaty of 1831, amounts to a denial of justice on her part, and when connected with the pretension on which that refusal is founded, involves national interests of the highest order; inasmuch as it proceeds on the assumption, that a foreign power, whose acts are spoken of by the President of the United States, in a message transmitted by him to Congress, in obedience to his constitutional duties, and which deems itself aggrieved by the language thus held by him, may, as a matter of right, require from the Government of the United States, a direct, official explanation of such language, under the penalty of such consequences as the offended party may think proper to prescribe. The incompatibility of this pretension with the theory of our constitution, and with the practice under it—the ground taken by the President in regard to it—the impossibility of his departing from that ground—and his consequent inability to subject a point so essential to the independence and honor of his country, to the control of any foreign power (however great might be his confidence in its justice or impartiality) or to do or consent to any act by which the influence of this principle, in the action of our political system, can be obstructed or impaired, are, as we understand, fully stated by the Secretary of State. With this avowal of the President's sentiments on this point, and an explicit reservation of it, the offer of mediation is accepted; and the hope is expressed, that the good offices of a third party, guided by the elevated considerations which have prompted its interposition, may be successful in restoring all the relations of France and the United States to a friendly footing. Such we understand is, in brief, the tenor of the response given by the Executive to the proposal of Great Britain.

In connexion with the foregoing statement, we also think it proper to say, that, as we are informed, the letter of acceptance contains no new disavowals of any intention to menace France, or to question the good faith of her King, in the Message of 1834. On that subject, Mr Livingston, in his official character, spoke at an early day in the name of his Government; and his statements were subsequently approved by the President, through the Secretary of State, and by his Message at the commencement of the present Session. The approbation thus expressed, includes, both in form and substance, all the explanation that can ever be given, consistently with the nature of our government, and the circumstances of the case. In speaking on the occasions referred to, of the character and design of the Message of 1834, the President did not at all depart from the ground on which he has always stood in this controversy; because, in both cases, he addressed himself to functionaries of the American Government, in the exercise of that very duty of inter-communication with them, for the inviolability of which, by foreign powers, he has so strenuously contended. To have entered into further explanations on this point, even with a third party, especially after the demands recently made by the French Government, would have involved an abandonment of the principle in question, and in other respects have been derogatory to the character of the nation.

The acceptance of the offered mediation, whilst it is so guarded as not to compromit, in the slightest degree, the essential interests of the country, has yet been made with such promptness, and in a manner so frank and conciliatory, that however it may result, it must necessarily strengthen the already incontestible justice of our course. It is a new proof, added to the many before given, of the earnest desire of the United States, to come to a good understanding with the Gov- [illegible] spirit by that Government, and may issue in the performance of her engagements, and in the restoration of friendly intercourse and kind feeling, between the two countries, must certainly be the wish of every American.

Time only can determine whether this wish is to be realized. In the meanwhile, it is doubtless due to the high character of the mediating power, as well as the conciliatory sentiments implied in our acceptance of the offer, that the discussion of retaliatory measures on the part of the United States, be suspended until the intended course of France shall have been satisfactorily ascertained. But it is perfectly consistent with the pacific motives which prompted the acceptance of the mediation, and with the hopes it is calculated to inspire, that we should proceed without delay, as recommended by the President, to make the requisite preparations for protecting our commerce, and for placing our seaboard in a complete state of defence. The duty—the indispensable duty—of proceeding with these measures, is too obvious to need comment. And we trust the National Legislature will, in this instance, exemplify in their acts, the wisdom of the remark, to which every one, in theory, is so ready to assent—that the surest and cheapest defence against aggression, is a timely and adequate preparation to repel it.

For the Morning Post.

RE-CHARTER OF THE BANK OF THE UNITED STATES BY PENNSYLVANIA.

Mr Greene—Permit me to offer through your columns, one or two remarks, in regard to the re-charter of the United States Bank by the State of Pennsylvania, which seems no longer to be a matter of doubt. It seems, by some, to be thought a matter of very trifling import; but it certainly is among the gravest questions that have ever agitated the public mind. Though the charter comes from a State legislature, it is, in fact, intended to be, to all intents and purposes, a national Bank; to be controlled by the same President and Directors, and to embrace the same capital and interests of the present Institution; and will be used for the same political ends that have disgraced its connexion with certain presses and politicians of the country.

The question, of more importance than all others, on this subject, is, how can the designs of the Mammoth be best met and frustrated? for I take it for granted, that the people, after having defeated its designs of re-establishing its connexion with the United States Treasury, and driven it out of Congress, will not suffer it quietly to proceed in the re-establishment of its power, by pushing its branches and influence into State after State, till it becomes what it was prior to the removal of the deposites, an absolute monarch, a ruthless tyrant, reigning, without a rival, over the currency of the country, rendering money plenty or scarce, as may best promote the interests and subserve the purposes of its AGENTS. As it will not be responsible to Congress, and cannot, therefore, be directly reached through the election of members of Congress, and President and Vice President, it will be necessary to change the mode of attack, and cut it up in detail. Let the Democracy, in those States where they possess an undoubted and permanent ascendancy, pass laws making it penal to pass, or to offer to pass its notes. Let the United States refuse its notes in payment for duties and postages; let the deposite banks second the efforts of the Democracy to suppress and prevent the circulation of its bills, and my word for it, it will soon be seen by Nicholas Biddle and his satelites that in giving four and a half millions for a charter, and a half of a million for the votes of five or six political judges, they "paid too dear for the whistle."

MIDDLESEX.

Tom and Jerry, at the Tremont this evening, will be as nice a bit of fun and frolic as has been seen upon the Boston boards for a long while. Reeve is unrivalled in it.

The Tallahasse (Florida) Intelligencer of the 27th ult., mentions a rumor that Major Dade, who was reported to have been killed by the Indians on his way from Tampa Bay to Camp King, had arrived at the latter place. The rumor is believed to be unfounded.

EIGHT DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

HIGHLY IMPORTANT AND INTERESTING FROM ENGLAND—RECEIPT OF THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE IN LONDON AND PARIS—MEDIATION OF ENGLAND ACCEPTED BY FRANCE—OPENING OF THE FRENCH CHAMBERS—THE KING'S SPEECH.

By the Packet Ship England, Capt. Waite, at New York, from Liverpool, whence she sailed on the 1st of January, London papers to the 31st of December, inclusive, and Liverpool to the day of sailing have been received.

The President's message was received at Liverpool on the 28th December by the packet ship Independence, and was immediately forwarded to London by express, and appears in most of the papers of that city of the 30th. The message was also forwarded from London to Paris, and was received there, after the delivery of the King's speech. A private letter states that every other topic was absorbed in consideration of the message. A slight change took place in the English funds, Consols having risen to 91 3-4 and 7-8.

The Message is generally considered by the London press as pacific in its character, and there was no doubt that the mediation of England would be the means of a successful termination of all difficulties. We subjoin the a portion of their comments.

The London Morning Post says, "The language throughout is calm and dispassionate, maintaining with proper firmness the dignity of the United States, but unequivocally disavowing any intention to menace on insult the French Government."

The Globe of the 30th says—From the calm and dispassionate tone of that portion of the Message which relates to the dispute with France, we are confirmed in the opinion we have before expressed, that the affair will be amicably and speedily arranged—almost, as it appears to us, without further occasion for the good offices of this country with either party.

The True Sun says—The point of view in which the Message places the dispute with the French Government does not leave the latter a leg to stand upon. It is the most complete refutation of the wretched sophistries used by that Government for evading what it has repeatedly acknowledged itself to be a just claim. If the Message has not settled the dispute, it has not widened it; and it is even probable that explanations, which will no doubt follow, will bring every thing to an amicable conclusion.

The Times of the 31st Dec. says—This recent message is longest among the lengthy, but we are bound to add, that among the able, it is the ablest also. There is not many Englishmen, of any party, who before the appearance of the message had failed to express their strong disapprobation of the petulance evinced by the French Chamber of Deputies towards the American Government, and connived at, if not openly encouraged, by the Court. But had there remained any change to be wrought in the opinions of the people of this country in favor of the United States, or had there been anything wanting to satisfy us as to the justice of the American quarrel, the message would have abundantly supplied such disiderata by its clear and forcible, but calm, temperate, and frank exposition, of the causes in which the dispute with France originated, and of those which, on the part of that Government, have hitherto obstructed its adjustment.

The Liverpool Mercury says—It is conciliatory in its tone, and leaves the French Government without the shadow of an excuse for any further delay in the payment of the indemnity acknowledged to be due to the citizens of the United States.

OPENING OF THE SESSION OF THE CHAMBERS.

On the 29th Dec., the session of the French Chambers was opened with a Speech from the Throne. The only item of interest in it, is that relating to the unfulfilled treaty, which is as follows:—

"I regret that the treaty of the 4th of July, 1831, with the United States of America, should not yet have been completely carried into execution. (N'ait pas encore pu recevoir sa complete execution.) The King of Great Britain has offered both to me and to the United States his amicable mediation. I have accepted it, and you will share in my desire that this difference may terminate in a manner equally honorable to two great nations."

The Paris Correspondent of the London Morning Post, states that strong suspicions were entertained that an attempt would be made on the life of the King, while on his way from the Chamber, and that although no such attempt was made, Bergeron (the same man that was tried for, and acquitted of, [illegible] attempt to shoot the King on the Pont Royal) had been seized with two other individual, all three having fire arms about their person.

Hudson's London correspondent under date of London, 30th December, writes:—

"Every possible effort has been made by France to obtain the Message before the meeting of the Chambers. A powerful steamer has been despatched to the mouth of the Channel to meet the Havre packet, though it was generally supposed that it would be first brought to this country, and then to France from London."

The Duchess de Dantsic, widow of Marshal Lefevre, died on Monday morning at the age of 76. She has left a fortune of upwards of 15,000,000 francs to the nieces of her late husband.—Galignani's Messenger.

On the 28th December the Court of Peers, after eighteen public and two secret sittings, pronounced sentence upon the prisoners including the second division of the "Monster trial."

The news from Spain is highly favorable to the cause of the Queen. The Government is proceeding in the work of reform, and at the same time adopting the most energetic measures for putting an end to the war.

The Augsburgh Gazette contains the following paragraph under date of Rome, Dec. 12:—

"According to the statements of several foreign newspapers, our Government, in concert with that of Sardinia, has sent considerable sums of money to Don Carlos. The assertion, so far as regards our Court, is grounded on mere conjectures, which are founded on no fact.

Correspondence of the Journal of Commerce.

LIVERPOOL, 1st Jan., 1836.—The sales of Cotton this week as follows:—180 Sea Island at 15d to 2s 2¾d; 70 stained do at 7½d to 12d; 12,500 Upland at 7½d to 10½d; 6,410 Orleans at 6½d to 11½d; 1,240 Alabama and Mobile at 6½d to 10d; 7,660 other sorts—28,060. Of which 3500 American, 2000 Egyptian, and 100 Brazil were bought by speculators, and 1900 American and 650 bales Brazil for exportation—at an advance of ⅛d per lb. on short stapled American, and ⅛d on Egyptian.

Small Business.—The Common Council of New York have refused to compensate the individuals who permitted their premises to be demolished with gunpowder during the great fire in December.

The Holland Land Office, at Mayville, Chautauque County, New York, was destroyed by a mob on the night of the 6th inst., and most of the books and papers were burnt or otherwise destroyed.

The engagement referred to in the Baton Rouge extract, which we published on Saturday, is probably the same which occurred at Withlacooche, on the 31st of December.

Richard Hawkins, the Virginia mail robber who sometime since escaped from the custody of the law, has been re-taken.

Capt. Corey, of H. M. B. Pantaloon, left Washington on Saturday week, for Norfolk, and was to sail immediately for Falmouth.

The Manager of the New York Franklin theatre has offered a benefit to the sufferers by the late fire in that city.

Relief Bill.—We are happy to state, that the fourth and last of the New York bills of relief—that authorizing the crippled insurance companies to restore their capitals and resume their business—passed the Senate yesterday, by a vote of 23 to 5, one more than a constitutional majority. It had previously passed the house by nearly an unanimous vote; was now returned to that body with several amendments, which were at once concurred in; and the bill has become a law.—Albany Argus.

From Buenos Ayres.—We have papers from Buenos Ayres to Nov. 21st. They contain no news of importance. A commissioner had been appointed on the part of Buenos Ayres, to arrange the terms of a Convention with Great Britain, on the subject of the slave trade.—Jour. Com.

The Augusta (Geo.) Sentinel of the 2d inst., states that 74 more young men of that place have volunteered for the Florida war, and were that day to leave for Savannah.

MASSACHUSETTS LEGISLATURE.

Saturday, Feb. 13.—In the Senate.—The consideration of the amendment, offered by Mr Cushing, to the amendment submitted by Mr Parker to the bill to increase the capital stock of the Boston and Lowell Railroad, was resumed, and after some debate, the question was taken and the amendment rejected On Mr Parker's amendment, the vote was ordered to be taken by yeas and nays. The orders of the day were however laid upon the table before the question was taken.

In the House.—Petitions of Calvin Hilliard and others of Worcester, for the incorporation of a Bank in that town; of H. B. Boynton and 44 others, for incorporation and authority to construct a Railroad from West Stockbridge to the line of the State of New York, severally read and referred.

Imprisonment for Debt.—The debate upon this subject was continued, but not concluded. The object of the Bill under discussion is to render the jail limits on all past and future contracts, co-extensive with the limits of the several counties. In the course of the debate to-day, Mr Blake, of Boston, described the partial amendment, introduced into the Revised Statutes, as a poor, pitiful, miserly act of legislation. He also explained a mistake into which Mr Ashman, of Springfield, had fallen, in accusing him of inconsistency, and attributing votes and arguments to him in the House, in 1834, upon this very subject. Mr Blake said there were many reasons why there was no ground for this charge of inconsistency, which reminded him of a lawyer who once proposed to offer twenty objections to the summoning a certain person as a witness, and the first objection was that the witness was dead; and in like manner Mr B. could not have pursued the course attributed to him, in the House, because he was not a member of it at the time! Mr Blake also intimated, that Mr Ashmun might look more to the effect of the bill on his professional practice, than at the enlarged general principles, which ought only to be regarded in acting on the subject. For his own part, ever since the question was first agitated, he had been in favor of total abolition of imprisonment for debt.

Mr Ashmun rose to repel the insinuation, that his profession biased his course against the bill, and said Mr Blake ought to blush till his face was as red as the setting sun, for the language he had uttered.

Mr Blake rejoined, that as a general rule, men were, though perhaps unconsciously, influenced by their private interest, and he did not feel disposed to blush at all for the remark he had made.

Mr Mosely, of Newburyport, wished the entire law was the same now as it was ten years ago, for he believed it would be better for the community. He professed great respect for governors, but ridiculed the idea, that a scrap of paper sent into the House, with Edward Everett at the end of it, should be entitled to any more respect than the opinion of any other person. The opinion in His Excellency's Message was only the opinion of Edward Everett, or Mr Edward Everett! He had heard enough of the opinions of great men, and of this morbid sympathy for the poor debtor! [contemptuously.]

Congress.—In the Senate, 9th inst., on motion of Mr Webster, a bill, making appropriations, in part, for the service of the year 1836, was taken up, considered, read a third time and passed. (See Letter.)

Select Committee on the subject of abolition of slavery in the District of Columbia, (under Mr Pinckney's resolution.) Messrs. Pinckney, Hamer, Pierce, of N. H., Hardin, Jarvis, Owens, Muhlenberg, Dromgoole, and Turrill.

In the Senate, on Wednesday 10th, President Jackson transmitted a report of the Sec'y of War on the subject of the existing hostilities in Florida. The message was ordered to be printed, and was referred to the committee on military affairs. Mr Benton's resolutions were debated at considerable length. On motion of Mr Clay, the private bills from the House, which had been favorably reported on (31 in number) were all considered and passed, and the Senate adjourned.

In the House, the whole day was spent in a debate on the bill for extra appropriations for navy yards, without coming to any conclusion thereon.

The following is a copy of a letter Mr Williams, the Oculist, now at the Bromfield House, has received from an aged clergyman at Providence, R. I. who became his patient only a few weeks since. It appears that the Rev. Mr Wilson had been several times threatened with the loss of sight during the last thirty years, and was more anxiously concerned to preserve the little which remained, than to have it improved; probably he thought it to be next to impossible owing to his great age of seventy six. Another clergyman however states that Mr Wilson's sight is sensibly improved.

Providence, Feb. 11, 1836.

To Doct. Williams, Oculist, Boston:

Dear Sir—By request of my father-in-law, the Rev. J. Wilson, I would hereby inform you, that he has continued to have his eyes dressed as you directed. He also wishes me to inform you Sir, that his eyes are better, that they feel stronger, and that the sight is sensibly improved! He desires me to present you his kind regards, and you will please to to accept the same from Yours, &c.

J. FILLMORE.

He also informs us that the Captain of the M. has entered a prosecution against the Commander of the British sloop of War, for $5000 damages."

Accident.—A girl about nine years old, daughter of Mr James Bullock, on Tuesday was caught by her handkerchief and drawn on the main shaft of the West Factory in this town, and before she could be extricated made probably 150 evolutions. We learn, however, hopes are entertained of her recovery, though when taken from the shaft appearances of life only were perceived.—Taunton Gaz.

Extract of a letter, received by the owners of the brig Hollander from Capt Wm. Kelly, dated Lisbon, 11th, Dec 1835.

"I arrived here on the 9th inst. in distress—Sailed from Rotterdam on the 7th ult., and had an excellent run as far as Long. 38 W.—Lat. 43 30 N. On the 21st. at night it commenced blowing very heavy from the South—At 11 P. M. I was under the necessity of laying the brig too under a close reefed maintop-sail—At 4.30 A. M. a sudden gust of wind rent the topsail to pieces and broke the main yard in three parts—At this time the weather had settled to a perfect hurricane—I immediately had the trysail set, balanced reefed;—in half an hour after the gaft was broken to pieces—I then had a spare fore-top-mast staysail hoisted on the trysail mast—that sail was instantly blown away—I then had our best stern cable passed along the deck, and attached to a spar, which we put overboard for "a drag," for the purpose of keeping the ship's head to the sea—Two hours after the drag was in operation the cable parted and the brig fell off in the trough of the sea.—Two successive seas boarded us and tore to pieces the bulwarks, galley, and everything on deck—We could do no more The brig was a hull, and laboring excessively—In a tremendous sea her cargo shifted, and during this part of the gale we pumped up a great quan[illegible] gin, oil and madder—On the 25th the hurricane abate[illegible] heavy gale, and on that day we succeeded in getting another main yard [illegible], and set a main top-sail. At 2 A. M. of the 26th we were visited again by those dreadful gusts of wind, which broke the main yard and split our other topsail. I took down the fore yard and made a main yard of it. We lost that, and finally had to let the vessel lay a hull for six days, not having a sail bent which we could set. On the 27th our rudder broke in two, but not so badly as to prevent our guiding the brig. When the gale commenced the magnetic bearing of the island of Carvo was S. E. by S. and when I bore up for a port, the island of Terceira bore south 60 miles distant, leaving us a drift of about 425 miles in eight days. We had much difficulty in getting the brig up the river to this place, with two pilot boats to tow her.

There are now in this port seven vessels in distress—three Americans—three English and one Bremen brig. The damage done has been immense, and, badly as we have suffered, we have escaped better than theothers.

A letter from Capt Crosby, late of bark Saratoga, dated at Algeciras, 16th Dec, states that the cargo is all out of the vessel, and that but little of the wine and oil is missing—some lemons were saved in bulk, and some sumac, but were much damaged. Some of the materials of the vessel would be saved Her cargo consisted of 40 pipes, 100 hhds, 410 qr casks wine; 82 pipes oil; 30 tons brimstone; 330 bags sumac; 100 do filberts; 100 do walnuts; 400 bush beans; 25 bales rags; 4145 boxes lemons and oranges. She was insured at the following offices—United States $16,000, New England $10,000, Ocean $8500, and Tremont $3000.

The ship Hyde Park, Snow, of Bucksport, Me, from New Orleans, for Trieste, cargo cotton, struck on a sunken ledge, Jan 3, in the night, lat 38 14, lon 42, and bilged. DOUBLE ENTRY BOOK-KEEPING is taught at Foster's Commercial School, 116 Washington street, upon the principles of real business. The learner is exercised in buying and selling—in making out invoices and account sales—receiving and accepting bills—effecting insurance—and in keeping the Day-book, Journal and Leger in the most approved forms. The subject of closing and re-opening books—balancing and adjusting individual and partnership concerns—equation of payments, &c., is explained and illustrated: in short, an attempt will be made to exhibit and to teach in a correct manner, whatever belongs to the well regulated Counting house. Hours of instruction at the convenience of the learner.

[From the Evening Gazette.]

"MERCANTILE BOOK KEEPING.—The manner in which this art is taught, conveys a very imperfect idea of the practice of the merchants. The great difference between theory and practice,—between the study of an art and its application to practical use, is too well known to need remark; and we think Mr Foster's plan, by connecting systematic book-keeping with actual transactions—possesses advantages worthy the consideration of all who wish to acquire the forms and modes of business in a thorough and effectual manner.

His long experience in the counting-house, and skill as a penman, are circumstances which qualify Mr Foster in a peculiar manner, for the duties of his profession."

NEW ENGLAND CROWN GLASS.—The New England Crown Glass Company have recently erected a new furnace and are manufacturing an excellent article. Their Crown Glass is thick, pure and of excellent color. Its thickness gives it an advantage over all thin glass, which is liable to crack from contraction in cold weather. Its surface not being polished after being blown, retains its enamel, brilliancy and hardness, and is not liable to the objection which applies to Plate Glass, of being easily and permanently bedimmed by dust.

The New England Crown Glass being purer in color than any other Glass, is preferable for Stores, as it does not tinge the rays of light as they pass through it, and therefore white goods particularly appear to advantage; and it is peculiarly useful for Factories, as some minutes of light may be gained morning and evening, in consequence of the absence of color in this glass. The price of second quality is reduced from the rates heretofore asked.

☞ Those who wish to contract for this Glass are requested to specify NEW ENGLAND CROWN GLASS. As much imposition has been practised by dealers in Glass, by deceptive marks on boxes and other artifices, any purchaser who may apprehend he has been imposed upon is invited by letter or personally to apply to the subscriber for any information he may wish to enable him to detect the deception. Orders sent to the undersigned, at Boston or East Cambridge, or to any at the Company's Selling Agents, will be promptly attended to. Persons wishing the appointment of Selling Agent, can apply to the subscriber by letter or otherwise.

AT A MEETING of the "UNITED BENEVOLENT SOCIETY OF JOURNEYMEN TAILORS" of Boston, held on the 2d inst, the following Preamble and Resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, we have associated ourselves for the purpose of relieving our mutual misfortunes:

And whereas, it adds much to the calls upon our Society to have its members discharged from their employment in the middle of winter, to make room for girls—and that, too, without fault:

And whereas, the public are induced to suppose that many firms in this city permanently employ men—instead of which they only do so occasionally, therefore

Resolved, That we will publish in the papers, a list of the names of the proprietors of tailoring establishments who are in the constant habit of employing men, that the public may know at what shops their work will be done in a thorough and workmanlike manner.

Resolved, That the above Preamble and Resolutions, together with the list of said firms, be published in the Daily Evening Transcript, Boston Morning Post, Commercial Gazette, and Patriot & Chronicle.

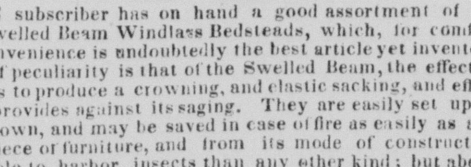
ADAMS'S PATENT



THE subscriber has on hand a good assortment of the Swelled Beam Windlass Bedsteads, which, for comfort and convenience is undoubtedly the best article yet invented; its chief peculiarity is that of the Swelled Beam, the effect of which is to produce a crowning, and elastic sacking, and effectually provides against its saging. They are easily set up or taken down, and may be saved in case of fire as easily as any other piece of furniture, and from its mode of construction less liable to harbor insects than any other kind; but above all its advantages is the ease and comfort obtained from the sacking, by means of its being made and kept elastic by means of the Swelled Beam, (the form of which is exhibited in the above cut.)

Orders thankfully received, and promptly attended to
CHARLES ADAMS, Patentee,
422 Washington st. a few doors south of Washington Bank.

C. A. has added a steam power to his manufactory which will enable him to give a full supply at a cheaper rate than hertofore.
